Yes. We do have enough cash to cover the additional outage expense.

DO we have enough cash to cover the expense? If the answer is YES then this is fine.

Justin,

We are forecasting the repair cost for DVP economizer repairs to be ~$500k, as per our Delegation of Authority spending limits, your approval is requested for this expenditure.

Thanks

Justin,

Here are the pics on the economizer. I know it's a bit quick/dirty, not a formal presentation, but hopefully conveys the situation.

Since you and I spoke and we have been able to clean / wash and perform a more thorough inspection, 24 of 51 pendants have dropped. The north side has dropped as much as 4 feet, south end may only be inches. They're clearing the ash / mud now, Brahma is working up a rigging plan. Safety first!

- Approximately 2 weeks to make repairs
 - Expected completion date? Original schedule was Unit 2 outage completion on Nov 16 @ 2400. New estimate is Nov 25 @ 2400.
- Total cost at this point ~$500k repairs + $400k in lost margin
- Final Root Cause TBD - We have our wide-angle lens (inspections top to bottom-front to back) on looking for anything else that could fail.

I will provide updates as we work thru the repair process.
